

How can we make Fort Lee a better community?

You tell us! ... If you are a military service member, Department of Defense Civilian employee, contractor, retiree or family member who lives, works, or receives services at Fort Lee, senior leaders need your input as a valued member of our community.

Please complete our anonymous Community Strengths and Themes Assessment Survey before July 20, 2014, online at:

<https://usaphcapps.amedd.army.mil/Survey/se.ashx?s=251137456E6E1E69>.

The Community Health Promotion Council (CHPC) launched this survey to capture the pulse of community member's feelings on quality of life, health, safety and satisfaction within the environment of Fort Lee. The top identified issues will be reviewed by the CHPC and established as priorities to be addressed through the CHPC Working Groups.

The CHPC is the senior commander's forum to coordinate all health, wellness, and resiliency efforts between service providers and mission commands across Fort Lee. The CHPC provides linkages from the senior commander down to individual units to directly impact Soldiers and ensure the Council is driven based on identified issues and trends.

Leaders, please disseminate this information to the widest audience possible using organizational email and official correspondence distribution lists.

Respectfully,
Claire L. Dermer
